

Vitalfa and Brewster Foods Play Green

BREWSTER FOODS

In conjunctive efforts to become eco-responsible, Vitalfa and Brewster Foods are proud to support We Play Green.

We Play Green is an environmental organization founded by Cincinnati Reds outfielder Chris Dickerson and Cleveland Indians pitcher Jack Cassel. Its main focus is to build awareness of the damage the huge amounts of plastic, used by professional sports teams each season, has on the environment.

We Play Green is a call to action throughout all of professional sports to provide stadiums, locker rooms, and playing fields with the proper recycling receptacles and outlets to help curtail the amount of plastic that is used during the extent of the season. The emphasis will be on the players, front office, and managerial personnel to help in this fight to clean up our environment.

In addition to providing better recycling facilities, they will also be working to get every team to utilize reusable water bottles. Through proper implementation of the use of reusable water bottles they can help trim the inordinate consumption of plastic bottles and cups throughout the season.

Vitalfa and Brewster Foods will be taking the step along with We Play Green to transform our every day business operations into a fully integrated, green effort.

For more information on We Play Green, Inc., please visit the website at www.weplaygreen.org to see how you can play clean and play green.

weplaygreen

www.weplaygreen.org